Blimp Are Saved

Fishermen Spot Men On Rafts

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) Nine Naval reservists told Friday of a harrowing night spent on storm-tossed life rafts in North Carolina's Pimlico Sound after their blimp crashed and sank during a severe thundersquall.

Fishermen spotted wreckage of the blimp about 8 a.m. and found the men aboard two rafts. A 25foot fishing craft towed the rafts to a Coast Guard station as a massive air and sea rescue effort was under way.
None Injured

The reservists, members of a squadron en route from Glynco, Ga., to Lakehurst, N.J., from a training cruise, were flown to the Norfolk Naval Air Station early Friday afternoon. None was in-

They said the blimp ran into the thundersquall over Pimlico Sound, between North Carolina's mainland and the Outer Banks. A rip in the fabric caused the blimp to loose pressure. It was forced into the water almost immediate-

Something New In Politics

Politics is a pretty old game and so some people imagine there's never anything new in it. But there is, and the 1960 Republican contenders for the presidency may be the ones to prove it.

For some time now a nomination race has been shaping up between Vice President Nixon and retiring Sen. William F. Knowland of California. Knowland made the prospect more certain recently by telling friends among California lawmakers that he definitely plans to run for governor of that state next year.

All along, the present Gov. Goodwin J. Knight has indicated an intention to run again, which would give California one of the hottest primary fights in many years.

Knight could, of course, change his mind and run instead for the Senate seat Knowland is vacating. He doesn't particularly want the spot, but he might under some circumstances decide that going for it was the best

Should he battle for the governorship, however, then the big question would be where Nixon would throw his very substantial weight.

And here's where the relative novelty in politics might appear. Some sources indicate he may lend his backing to Knowland, who could turn out to be his chief 1960 rival if he went on to win the 1958 governorship election.

Seldom in political history would you be likely to find a parallel. Presidential contenders are not in the habit of helping to build each other up. Their normal instincts are all the

But Nixon has a problem. His dislike of Knight is personal as well as political, and is well known. To get behind the governor would look bad, and would go against his grain.

There's no way to stay aloof from the struggle, since the Southern California Republican organization is largely Nixon's, and would have to take a definite stand in any such con-

Possibly the vice president believes his status with respect to the 1960 nomination is so strong that he can give such aid and still not suffer unduly. But obviously there is a risk involved and politicians as a breed do not run around deliberately trying to increase their risks.

It could be that Nixon just doesn't think he has any other choice in the matter, and simply will have to let the chips fall where they may.

We note with interest that you ill be able to buy a beautiful 11x14 portrait of your baby for only 99c. Leave us face it — it can't be done. This is an old gimmic — the old come on — anything to get you to come in — and then you buy or else — or else you wish you had.

I feel sure that not many mothers will drag their children out in this miserable, hot, humid weather to take advantage of thi terrific offer. In the past six weeks we have just photographed over 700 babies during our annual contest. It would seem to me that most of the babies in this community have been photographed.

Read in the paper where a rcus is coming to town. I know that they can count on Bill and Billy being there. Bill loves ircuses. He resents the fact that they have to misrepresent — seems like all circuses do — that is if they have 15 elephants they have to advertise 21 — fifteen is quite a few, you know. The paper said that this was the first big show to appear here in nine years — wonder what they thought about Ringling Brothers just three sum-mers ago. Anyway Bill has seen this circus a couple of times and he says that it is a very good one and it is true that they have a terrific menagerie — not so much in the size but in the variety of animals. Sept. 5 is the date to re-member. It is worth the money.

We want to thank all those that entered into our contest making t the largest that we have ever nad. There were 45 cities and towns represented and five states. It will be at least six weeks before ne winners will be announced and believe me, we are just as anxiou to find out who they are as you.

Oh, yes, Tuesday will not be Tots Day this week as Bill will be out of town for four days. He is going to attend the convention of the Pho-tographers Association of Florida Miami Beach, Fla. Flying down on Sunday and returning Wednesday night. I'd give anything to go with him but my present condition will not allow such a trip. Do you know that this will be the first time, with the exception of the pital, that Bill and I have been apart in four and a half years of married bliss. I know that Billy and I will miss him terribly and know that he will miss us, too. Be Seeing You

THE STALKS of rice are stacked into bundles in the field by the workers. Both men and women help in carrying it to granary.

The Balinese are considered the roost expert rice growers in the world, irrigating admirably in native style. Hillsides resemble hanging gardens.

Gods Play Important Role In Bali's Growth of Cereal

THE PROVERBIAL staff of life to many nations is the rice crop. To the people of the colorful and remote island of Bali rice growing is a way of life. Without the fertile sawas, or rice fields, the Balinese would find living difficult indeed, if not impossible.

The Balinese harvest two full crops of rice each year. The native gods are called upon to bless the crop, and holy water from Bali's sacred mountain is sprinkled on the fields and paddies to ensure the farmers of a good crop. The High Priest selects the day when the planting is to begin. Offerings to the rice goddess are made at this time.

As the rice crop ripens, offerings are made to protect it from caterpillars and mice. Only the men are permitted to attend the rice during the growing and planting. Women and children go into the fields at harvest time. The women thresh the rice each afterhoon and their rhythmic beat is believed the basis of Balinese music.

BASKETS WITH rice offerings are brought to sawa shrine for the rice goddess. High Priest gives planting signal.

Mrs. Herbert Lee was elected president for the coming year; Mrs. Earl Holloway, vice president; Mrs. Wilbur Patrick, program committee. A report on the past year was read by the secretary, Mrs. Pearl Moore, who was retained for another year.

Mrs. Henry Herron and Mrs. Moore were remembered with a handkerchief shower by the group. They have attended all 36 reunions. E. F. Walker gave a very interesting paper relating to the history of the two families. He also gave some clever jokes along with the story. A solo by Kathleen Firebaugh, Bushnell: solo by Mike Fairfield: and contests and social conversation were the entertainment during the day.

We are very glad to report that Mrs. Hayden Walker is improving from her long illness and was able to join the group. A get well wish is extended to Mrs. Bert Sorrells, St. Louis: Clyde Wheeler, Centralia; Mrs. Verdie Walk-Jacksonville; and Mrs. Gerald Heaton, Winchester.

BUBBLES: ROUND AND SQUARE Round bubbles, left, are produced by small children with es and most of the time by nature. Now, Peter Senio, a metallurgist at the Knolls Atomic Power Laboratory in Schenectady, N.Y., reports that he has discovered square bubbles in nature. The first such ever observed in nature, the square and rectangular bubbles, right, only three-one-hundred-thousands of an inch thick, appear when lithium fluoride, irradiated with neutrons, is heated above 600 degrees centigrade (1,112 degrees Farenheit). Square bubbles shown were magnified more than 400 times, then enlarged in a photo-enlarger. The Knolls Laboratory is operated by General Electric for the Atomic Energy Commission.

GRAND TOUR-The opening of the newest leg of the New York Thruway east of Erie, Pa., adds another 46 miles to the grand tour of U. S. turnpikes you can make for $38.45. Numbers on Newsmap locate turnpikes. A tour of these roads would cover about 2,500 miles. The cost of such a tour is approximate because small segments of the network being brought to completion vary the tolls. The only turnpike not shown is that at Boulder, Colo.
